Info Lit Modules for D2L

Looking for ways to flip the classroom? Want your students to have a better understanding of peer review or APA citations?

Andersen Library Reference & Instruction Librarians have created a number of interactive information literacy tutorial modules that align with the LEAP Essential Learning Outcomes.

You may pick and choose which modules will work best for your students and then add those modules to your D2L course page!

For information regarding modules contact the following reference & instruction librarians:

- For introductory or 100-level courses: contact Diana Shull or Martha Stephenson
- For upper-level courses, Undergraduate Research Program, and Research Apprenticeship Program: Ellen Latorraca or Amanda Howell
- For Business and Economics: Amanda Howell

Filming/Photography Policy—Take 1

Article 3 of the American Library Association's Code of Ethics requires that we protect library users' "right to privacy and confidentiality with respect to information sought or received ..."

To be consistent with that principle, we have adopted a new policy for filming and photographing in Andersen Library.

If you'd like your students to film or photograph in Andersen Library, they will need permission from the Library Director beforehand.

Please refer to the full policy on the Library's web site: <http://library.uww.edu/about-us/policies/using-andersen-library>

Relaxathon—Not Just for Students

What do dogs, doodling, and crafting little doohickeys have in common? They have all been scientifically shown to reduce stress — and they are all available at Andersen Library this month.

The days leading up to final exams can be a pressure-cooker, with papers and projects looming (not to mention grading), so the Library offers activities to help our users beat the stress and feel refreshed.

Adult coloring books (G-rated, of course) are one of the latest crazes on college campuses. And the Library Public Relations committee makes sure there are plenty of coloring pages, crayons and colored pencils on hand.

Join us for crafts, meet up with our furry and loving four-legged friends, or grab a few coloring pages to take home. See the Library Blog for the schedule of events. <http://blogs.uww.edu/library/archives/17069>

Spring Course Reserves

If you'd like to place physical material on Reserve for your students for the Spring semester, please contact Library Reserves at reserve@uww.edu.

You may place either Library-owned material or your personal copies on reserve. You set the checkout period, whether 3 hours (in Library) or 1 day, 3 day, or 7 day loan periods.

For more information, visit the Course Reserves page.

If you need the items on Reserve for the first day of classes the deadline is Tuesday, January 12.

Holiday Treasures at the Book Sale

The holidays are right around the corner and this month's book sale features gift-worthy treasures for the bargain price of $2 per title. This month's sale features art, modern and ancient history, health and fitness, religion, cookbooks, novels, music CDs, DVDs and video games.

So start shopping and you may be ready for the holidays sooner than you expected.
