Meet the Author: Jim Winship

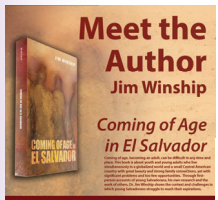

Come hear Social Work Professor, Jim Winship speak about his new book, Coming of Age in El Salvador. In this book, Jim Winship combines his research and that of others, his experiences in El Salvador over the span of four decades, and the stories of young people to produce a work that will lead to greater understanding of a country and its people. This event is co-sponsored by Andersen Library and Race & Ethnic Studies.

The Great War Displays

This year marks the 100th anniversary of the start of the First World War and the campus is commemorating this milestone in a number of ways. Andersen Library is hosting an ongoing display in the Lobby during the Fall semester. The first phase features the origins of war and the displays and topics will change every few weeks.

The Library's Special Collections Department is teaming up with the Veterans and Military Services Committee and the Roberta Fiskum Gallery at the University Center on another project. Centering around a traveling exhibition from the Wisconsin Veteran's Museum, this display is called Working Warriors: Military Life Beyond Combat and will be available for viewing the week of Nov. 10 with a reception on Veteran's Day.
