Test Drive a Database

We are offering two database trials in September. They are accessible from on and off-campus from the Database Trials page. GEObase offers article abstracts in the earth sciences, ecology, geomechanics, human geography, and oceanography. Women and Social Movements International offers the full-text of conference proceedings, reports of international women's organizations, publications and web pages of women's NGOs, and letters, diaries, and memoirs of women active internationally since 1840.

New Curriculum?

If you are teaching a new course or would simply like to expand Library resources in your subject area, be sure to let us know.

Faculty may submit Library requests for books or audiovisual material to their Library Representatives.

Your Department Library Rep can tell you more about how to order Library material.

Café Culture Expands

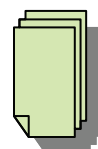

In response to greater demand for its services, the Library's Food for Thought Café has extended its morning and evening hours. Grab a cup of coffee, find a comfy chair and stay a while.

Mon-Thurs 8:45 am - 2 pm and 4:30-8:00 pm
Friday 8:45 am - 2 pm

Reinvigorate Your Reserves

If you have new reserve material (print or online) or would like to reactivate reserves from a previous semester, please fill out the reserves request form or contact Erin Wetzel: x5512, wetzele@uww.edu.

Continuous Book Sale

Our book sale never ends, so stop by any time at the kiosk near the Library entrance. A new crop of books appears each month. This month's books are $1 each.
