Faculty Ebook Survey Results

Thanks to the 128 faculty and instructors who took the Library's ebook survey in the Spring. Here are a few things we learned:

- 35% of respondents did not know we provided access to ebooks (so we will work on promoting them)
- 52% of those who knew about our ebooks had used them
- 96% assign some sort of print book or ebook content to students for class readings
- 57% would consider assigning ebook readings instead of print if they found appropriate content
- Top features that might make respondents assign ebooks to students: potential for reading by assistive technology, unlimited simultaneous users, and ability to search within the book

If you'd like to learn more about Ebook Central/ Ebrary (the Library's primary ebook collection) or other Library ebooks, please contact your Librarian Liaison.

Who Orders What for the Library

Want to see what books and media your department has ordered? We now have a Library Materials Ordered by Department web page that displays the titles ordered by each academic department: <http://tinyurl.com/y8en3qfw>

Choose a department, fiscal year and status (on order or received by the Library — or both). The results can be quickly copied and pasted into Excel if needed.

Each title links to the Research@UWW catalog record for location, call number and more.

We can create custom reports if you need additional information about your department's orders or Library holdings.

Faculty and instructors who wish to order material for the Library may do so using the Library's online request form.
