New Home for Archives/ARC

Visit the spacious new location of the University Archives/Area Research Center on the first floor of the Library in the former Media Center. All media collections have been moved to the second (main) floor to make them easier to find.

Book Sale Heaven

No need to wait until April for your book sale fix. The Friends of the Library Book Sale will now be a continuous event throughout the year. Each month we will highlight materials in specific subject areas, formats or genres. Look for the book sale kiosk near the Library entrance.

Library Instruction

Call now to reserve your spot for Library instruction. All year long, librarians offer customized Library instruction for your classes. Call the Reference Desk at x1032 or contact your Librarian Liaison to schedule a time. <http://library.uww.edu/aboutus/staff.html#liaison>

Inviting Spaces: Quiet & Group Study

We've been busy rearranging space and collections this summer to make the Library an even more inviting place to study. First and third floors are now dedicated to quiet study while the main floor is designated as a group study and talking floor. Grab a cup of coffee at the Food for Thought café and see how things have changed.

Let's Play Games

To support the University's multimedia curriculum, the Library now offers a gaming room with PlayStation 3, Wii and Xbox 360 consoles. In addition to the gaming room, video games are available for 7 day checkout and one of each console is available for 24 hour checkout. To make reservations for the gaming room, please call the Circulation Desk at x5511.

Check Out Reference Books?

Over the summer we moved many reference books into the circulating collections. But we decided to take it one step further. Starting this semester most of the remaining reference books may now be checked out for 24 hours. If there are titles you don't want checked out, please place them on reserve for your course by filling out the reserve request form: <http://library.uww.edu/forms/reserfom.doc>.
